THE
Mail Department for Samples & Supplies
AT THE GRAND DEPOT.

Its object is to enable persons living outside of Philadelphia to obtain goods cheaply, promptly, and satisfactorily; the same, in every respect, as if personally purchased at the counter.

The plan of business is thorough and systematic, the slightest request receiving the same precise and immediate attention as the largest order.

Its management is not left to lads or uninterested clerks, who send customers anything approaching their orders, but to ladies and gentlemen who are trained, and who make a study of this particular branch of the business.

The selections of goods are made with the utmost care, those for ladies being minutely inspected by ladies thoroughly acquainted with every detail of their important positions.

Exchanging goods or refunding money is a leading feature of our business, which obliges no one to keep articles not entirely satisfactory.

We do not allow letters to be put aside in any way, but the work of attending to them is begun instantly upon receipt of the mail, and not permitted to rest until it is finished. Telegraphic communication runs direct to the department, that there may not be the slightest delay when especial haste is required.

Our inflexible system of one price to all, makes persons who order by mail sure of the same prices that are charged our city customers. Should the price of any article decline between the time the samples are sent and the order received, we give the customer the benefit of it. Should goods ordered be sold, we try to get them at other stores, and, if we cannot find them, send samples of our nearest for another selection.

In ordering goods, unless they are to be sent by express, C. O. D., please remit by post-office order or registered letter, and, when convenient, make two selections, to secure a second choice should the first be sold before the order reaches us. If the distance is great, or considerable time elapses between the date the samples are received and the order sent, it may often save delay of correspondence to say whether, in case the exact articles have been sold, we shall use our own judgment in sending others, if we have something near those desired. Otherwise we will understand that nothing is to be sent if we are out of, and cannot get, the precise goods named.

Postal Regulations

That apply to merchandise by mail. (Please state in every order whether you wish the goods sent by mail or express.)

Unsealed packages of merchandise (excepting such as glass and liquids) weighing less than four pounds, and containing no writing of any kind, may be sent by mail at a cost to the purchaser of but one cent per ounce, and may be registered for ten cents additional. As mail packages, though rarely lost, are at a purchaser's risk, valuable parcels should be sent by express. Customers desiring to return goods by mail will please wrap their packages securely, but not seal or sew them, and after directing them to us, mark on the outside of the wrapper who they are from. This will prevent mistakes should we happen to receive articles of the same kind from more than one person at the same time.

Do not in any case send a letter, bill, or any other writing except that above stated, either inside or outside of the package, but write a letter and send it separately in an envelope, stating your wishes regarding the goods.

Packages sent in this way cost but one cent per ounce, but if these directions are not complied with, we have to pay letter postage (six cents per ounce) upon receiving the package, and, to remunerate ourselves, deduct it from the value of the goods sent us. As it is so easily done at any post-office, and costs but ten cents besides the regular postage, we urge customers to register all letters containing money. If we cannot fill an order the day it is received, we immediately notify the customer; hence, if you do not hear from us within a reasonable time, please write again, as your first letter may have been miscarried.

Plain Facts

For those who naturally hesitate about entrusting their orders to others.

The Grand Depot has constantly about a million of dollars invested in Goods to be sold to the people of the United States.

To make such an extensive business profitable its customers must be permanent.

People will not buy a second time if the first purchase is not satisfactory ; hence it is plain to any one who considers what an enormous amount we have at stake, that our own safety lies in always pleasing our customers.

We manufacture a great many of our goods, and send our buyers to Europe to select in person such as are imported ; this, coupled with our large sales, and consequent large purchases, secures for us every possible advantage, and the rapid growth of the Grand Depot shows that we share our advantages with our customers, and that they appreciate it.

Especially Important.

The unusual liberty, for which our house is celebrated, of returning goods, exchanging, or refunding money, that we so cheerfully grant, and consider absolutely indispensable as a matter of justice to our customers, especially those who order by mail, is one of the most convincing proofs of our confidence in our ability to excel in executing orders, and the sincerity of our desire to do it ; for if we send goods that do not suit, we directly injure ourselves, as we might sell them in the store while they are on the way to or from the customer, and may have no call for just such articles afterwards, and if they are cut into dress patterns or are other cut goods we have to suffer the disadvantage of their being in pieces, so we must send what we understand is desired ; and it would surprise many to know, with all the freedom we allow, how few goods are returned, owing to our " marvellous precision " (as one of our customers wrote us) in executing orders, and the excellent values we give for the prices charged. If we obliged customers to keep everything, whether it suited or not, we might be less particular.

Samples.

In piece goods, such as silks, dress goods, and others similar, prices cannot, of course, convey a definite idea, as we have all styles and all prices, and frequently much lower than we name here ; hence, when information is desired regarding them, we send samples with widths and prices marked. To enable us to meet your wishes with precision, please state as nearly as possible

1. Kind of goods desired (whether Silks, Dress Goods, Cloths, etc).
2. Color.
3. Style (whether plain, plaid, figured, etc.).
4. Price or Quality (whether good, medium, or ordinary).
5. Whether for old or middle-aged ladies, young ladies or children.

In ordering samples of Laces, give the name of the kind desired, state about what width is wanted, and whether real or imitation. Any idea regarding price may also assist us.

In ordering samples of Hamburgs, state about the width desired, and whether you wish edgings only, or insertings only, or both (and whether to match).

In ordering samples of Ribbons, state whether you wish gros grain or satin and gros grain, or two toned ; also name colors, and widths, as our stock is so large that, without this information, we might send a great quantity of samples, but none among them to suit you.

No charge is made for samples, or for postage on samples.

Dress Goods.

A description of this department is simply impossible. Its numerous counters cover more space than the entire stock of many prominent stores.

Fabrics from the cheapest home manufacture to the rarest and richest imported novelties are displayed in the greatest profusion.

In no department is the Grand Depot's advantage of immense sales a greater benefit than in this one, where the styles are constantly changing, and those not entirely fresh to be always cleared out.

Our buyers are constantly in the market, and the samples in our Mail Department are replenished daily from the latest arrivals, so that our out-of-town customers see the new things as fast as they appear.

We name a few of the goods, but can only do this department justice by sending samples. Please write for them, observing as nearly as possible the directions given on page 4. The prices given here are for qualities that are generally on hand.

We nearly always have other grades, and many at lower rates, but do not mention them lest, when ordered, we should happen to be out of them, and so cause disappointment.

Buttons.

From the nature of this stock, and the fact that we are daily receiving new styles, and closing out old ones, we suggest that, unless some staple kind of button is desired, customers may often save disappointment by describing the style they wish, or telling us to select such as are suitable for their goods,—naming about the price they wish to pay,—instead of requesting samples or descriptions of what we have, as they are frequently sold before we can receive the order, even though the customer lives near the city. As we allow privilege of return if not satisfactory, other styles may be procured if our first selections fail to please.

Should it be necessary for you to see samples, please send a piece of the goods you wish it to go with, or specify definitely what style is desired, as, buttons being actual goods, we cannot send samples of them as freely as of dress goods, etc.

In this prominent department we invite the closest inspection of our celebrated "Alexandre" and "Jugla" kid gloves. The "Jugla" is believed to be the best and most thoroughly reliable kid glove now imported.

We also import two brands of medium priced gloves, the "Treport" and "Lupin," which are fully warranted, and can be depended upon. Our stock is so large that we can nearly always supply any size or shade; but should we happen to be out of one ordered, we will take pleasure in procuring it elsewhere.

Ladies' Suits.

In this department we have always on hand, and are daily exhibiting, new things in all popular styles, from our own reliable work to rich imported costumes.

As we aim, in filling orders, to send only what is new, our present descriptions can give an idea only of a few of the styles that our general stock represents.

We are seldom able to send samples of ready-made goods, but will be pleased to give estimates for garments to be made to order from any samples that may be selected and sent us. In ordering ready-made suits, give the measure according to accompanying form for self-measurement, and state your wishes as nearly as possible regarding color, style, material, price, trimmings, etc., and we will use great care in making the selection, but give, according to our regular custom, privilege of return or exchange if we fail to please. We consider this plan a much more satisfactory one than that of sending several garments on approbation, as we are frequently requested to do.

In having suits made to order, for which purpose we have superior facilities, please send a sample of the goods of which the garment is to be made, giving measure carefully (taken according to accompanying Form), and, as in ready-made goods, describe as accurately as possible regarding style, trimmings, etc., unless left to our designer.

To avoid misunderstanding, it is always best to first write for estimates on garments to be made to order.

We will then furnish to order costumes in all qualities and at all prices, regulating always our estimate of cost by the grade of material desired, number of yards to be used in making the suit, its style, and the quality and quantity of trimming required for decoration.

How to Measure for Boots and Shoes.

Ordinarily, shoemakers measure by the barleycorn measure. Then, very few persons understand what a size is, or know how to measure their feet. The simplest and most accurate way to measure is to place the stocking foot on a sheet of white paper, and draw a pencil-mark around the same; marking where the corns are, if any. Next, measure the inches around the different parts of the foot, as per lines on diagram below, with an ordinary inch measure.

When orders are sent for shoes measured according to the above, please state the dimensions in the following manner:

Length,	-----	inches.
For Joint,	-----	inches.
Instep,	-----	inches.
Heel,	-----	inches.
Ankle,	-----	inches.
Top of shoe,	-----	inches.

State whether the foot is broad or narrow, and whether high, low, or medium heel is desired.

DIRECTIONS FOR MEASUREMENT.

With a tape-line take the number of inches around the head, in the position where hat is usually worn. If a stiff felt or silk hat has been used, give the exact number of inches of length and width inside. If any peculiarities exist (as, round head, or wider back and narrow front), they should be noted.

HOW TO MEASURE.

Give height and weight of person.

For Coat:—To get breast measure: Put inch measure close up under arms over Vest, at H, draw it comfortably tight, then around waist at I.

To get Length of Coat:—When Chesterfield or Frock is wanted, begin first at collar seam on the back of neck, A, then to B, for waist, continuing to length desired. When Sack is wanted, omit second measure, giving only total length.

To get Length of Sleeve:—Begin at a point as near as possible to the center of the back (see dots on diagram), then to the elbow, and continue on to the hand as F and G. [The customer's hand should be held about twelve inches from the breast, and the chest should not be expanded.]

For Vest:—Around breast at H. Around waist at I. From seam at back of neck down the inside collar of Vest to K, for height desired, and then on to L, for total length, as shown by dotted line on diagram.

For Pants.—Draw Pants up to proper place on person. Then begin from the waist as high as desired, including waistband, and measure down to heel seam of shoe for outside length. Then with your left hand from behind put tape close up in crotch and with right hand follow dotted line, N, to heel seam for inside length.* Around waist at I. Around seat at P. Around knee. Around foot at M. Position erect with legs straight.

* We mean by heel seam, the point where heel is joined to sole of shoe.

MAKE NO ALLOWANCES.

The measure furnished should be the exact size and length required in the garment when made. Every advantage that could be secured if the customer were on our premises, in the matter of accurate fit, can be secured as well through you, if you are particular in taking the measures as directed.
